WATERFORD AT FAIRWAY VILLAGE NAMES LIFE ENRICHMENT AND WELLNESS DIRECTOR

(VANCOUVER, Wash.)—Willow Eaton has joined Waterford at Fairway Village as life enrichment and wellness director. In this position, she will oversee the life enrichment and wellness programs.

Most recently, Eaton served as director of wellness programs for Frank Tobey Jones Retirement Estates in Tacoma. She has also worked as a fitness director for several athletic clubs as well as provided personal training and rehabilitation services through her own company.

She holds a Bachelor of Science degree in Exercise Physiology. Recently, she received Gentle Care training for individuals with dementia and related conditions.

Waterford at Fairway Village provides a broad range of services for active adults, including a health and fitness club, apartments and homes, assisted living, memory care, home health care, and respite care. Opened in 1998, the Waterford is home to about 200 people.
